

2017 Transportation Conditions

Understanding the transportation system we have today – and how it's working – is essential to developing strategies needed to create the system that will serve the mobility needs of the Whatcom region in 2040.